Wanted: The Church is looking for a priest capable of being reborn in the Spirit every day. The Church is looking for a man without fear of tomorrow, without fear of today, without complexes from the past. The Church is looking for a man who is not afraid of change, who does not change for the sake of changing, who does not speak just for the sake of speaking. The Church is looking for a man capable of living together with others, working, crying, laughing, loving, and dreaming together. The Church is looking for a man who can lose without feeling destroyed, who can doubt without losing his faith, who can bring peace where there is restlessness, and restlessness where there is peace. The Church is looking for a man who knows how to use his hands to bless and to indicate the way forward. The Church is looking for a man without many means, but with a lot to do, a man who, in moments of crisis, does not look for another job, but for the best way to work. The Church is looking for a man who finds his freedom in living and serving and not in doing what he wants. The Church is looking for a man who has nostalgia for God, nostalgia for the Church, nostalgia for the world, nostalgia for Christ's poverty, nostalgia for Christ's obedience. The Church is looking for a man who does not confuse prayer with words spoken out of habit, spirituality with feeling, calling with interest, service with work. The Church is looking for a man capable of dying for her, even more capable of living for her; a man capable of becoming a servant of Christ, a prophet of God, a man who speaks through his life. The Church is looking for a man. (Primo Mazzolari)

Your Call: If you feel called to Diocesan Priesthood please talk to your local priest or to the Diocesan Vocation Director in the Diocese where you live. A full list of Diocesan Vocation Directors and their contact details can be found here <https://vocations.ie/diocesan-vocation-directors/>.

Accord Marriage Care: Accord is the catholic marriage support service agency in Ireland. Trained facilitators provide pre marriage courses and on-going marriage support to couples. They also provide counselling to couples seeking help. The Meath diocesan office of Accord is in Navan and their website is www.accord.ie

Getting Married in the Coming Months? Any couple getting married in the coming months are asked to make sure that they do their pre marriage course and the church paperwork in plenty of time. This is to ensure that all is organised, and the couple can focus on planning their ceremony in the church with their priest in the months coming up to the wedding.
